

Door Locks

I am able to source most types of door locks for uPVC and aluminium doors.

Normally the manufacturer's name is stamped on the lock. Increasingly some locks are becoming unavailable, however a suitable replacement can be found 99% of the time. Coldseal locks are not a problem, they were made by Mila.

Full lock systems can be expensive to replace (£100 - £200), but still a lot cheaper than replacing the whole door. Sometimes, especially on some of the more common locks, it is not necessary to replace the whole lock as centre cases are available at nearly half the cost.

However, if you are experiencing problems with your door it is worth giving me a call as it may be that you don't require a full lock replacement.

In many cases the door only needs some adjustment because it has dropped or it may be just the lock cylinder that needs replacing.
